Physical health

Walking or cycling to school regularly gives your child opportunities for daily physical activity.

Mental focus

Students who get physical activity in the morning arrive at school more alert and ready to learn – and studies show they score higher on tests. Studies show the power of concentration is increased for up to 4 hours after a 20-minute walk!

Environmental well-being

Up to 25% of the morning rush hour traffic is attributed to the school commute. Reducing the number of cars at schools improves air quality, creating healthier school environments.

Fun and happiness

Those who walk and cycle the school route enjoy a deeper connection to their community and find joy in nature and people along the way.

Graduated independence

The walk to school provides a great opportunity for students to gradually know their community and take greater responsibility for themselves and younger children.
